What We Heard

What We Heard

- This 100 year anniversary is important milestone for the Kent Family and leadership team.
- The website is the window to the outside world about the success of the Kent company and the breadth and depth of the portfolio.
- The current website does not reflect Kent Worldwide's refreshed brand.
- The website lacks key UX and accessibility attributes.
- There needs to be an “easy button” to translate the vision to a development team (Alythia).
- Requested of E3:
 - Wireframes for approximately six key pages outlined within the SOW
 - Design for the updated site navigation, including the new fly-out menu structure
 - Any additional design direction needed to guide the developer’s work where the SOW assumes “best judgment” in the absence of a design team

What Makes This Project a Success

- We develop the right content that shares a compelling picture of the Kent WW's portfolio (brands, products)
- We showcase the rich heritage of the 100 year anniversary
- The website is aesthetically pleasing, intuitive to navigate, and accessible to its user
- We are avoiding project re-work and not relying on subjective developer design discretion
- This website is finalized before the 2026 holiday season, ahead of the 2027 launch

Questions

- General
 - Can you confirm the number of categories on the nav menu?
 - We understand they will be routed to new pages, correct?
 - Food & Hydration
 - Ingredients (GPC)
 - Food Service
 - Pet Care
 - Animal Nutrition
- 100 Year Page
 - Will this be standalone and located on the navigation?
 - Or should it be under Who We Are (like Mars)? – maybe a flyout
 - We assume this should mirror the Mars example and we should have a new module for this.
- Careers Page
 - Right now, on the Careers page, there's a version that has a hashtag over an image montage. It fails accessibility (it's not only difficult to read but in general it's bad practice to have text over an image like this). We could:
 - Leave this alone and they remove the text
 - [probably this] Redesign the text/image to have a branded color background behind the text
